

The Department of Music, Theatre, and Dance at Rhode Island College has an immediate opening for a Graduate Assistantship in Music Education for the 2021-2022 academic year.

Duties Include:

- Assist music faculty in teaching courses according to candidate's areas of expertise
- Assist music faculty in alumni outreach efforts
- Perform in music ensembles according to candidate's strengths
- Assist music faculty in research

Qualifications:

Admission to either the Master of Music Education (MMEd) or the Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT-Music Education) program at Rhode Island College. The successful candidate will be an effective teacher and motivator of college students with varying levels of experience. The Graduate Assistant should be able to teach effectively, perform in a variety of styles, and have great organizational skills.

Application Process:

Fill out the graduate application at Graduate Studies | Graduate Assistant Opportunities. Please include your CV/Resume.

Music Education at Rhode Island College:

Rhode Island College enjoys a distinguished history of preparing teachers for service. The graduate and undergraduate Music Education programs are academically rigorous and noted for their balance of research-based theory and site-based practice. Graduate students receive highly individualized instruction from faculty.

For further information, contact:

Graduate Co-Coordinators in Music:

Prof. Patricia Kammerer at pkammerer@ric.edu

Dr. Sam Breene at sbreene@ric.edu.

Department of Music, Theatre, and Dance

Rhode Island College

600 Mount Pleasant Avenue

Providence, RI 02908