You are Not Alone

YOU ARE NOT ALONE - HELP IS AVAILABLE 24/7

Make sure you are in a safe place. Contact someone you trust. If you need assistance on campus, call Campus Police at 456-8201; if you are off campus, call 9-1-1.

HELP IN SEEKING SUPPORT

There are resources out there to help you restore your safety and sense of control. It's important for any survivor to know and believe that the assault was not their fault. Although it may be hard to take the first step, seeking support from someone you can trust can be a positive move towards healing. A counselor can help you to navigate through your options for reporting. Ultimately, they hope to guide you towards the best choices and supports for YOU. The RIC Counseling Center offers free, high quality, strictly confidential counseling to any current RIC students. Another confidential resource is Day One, The Sexual Assault and Trauma Resource Center, which provides victim advocates. The 24 hour Helpline is 1-800-494-8100.

SEEKING MEDICAL ATTENTION AFTER ASSAULT

You are strongly encouraged to seek medical care and you may do so without reporting what happened to the police. Medical attention is important to treat or prevent sexually transmitted infections (STI's), prevent pregnancy and collect evidence should you decide to take legal action in the future. If you plan to go to the hospital, try not to bathe, go to the bathroom, brush your teeth or change your clothes. If you do change, bring the clothes you were wearing to the hospital in a paper bag. This will help to preserve important evidence. You can always decide later whether or not you want to press criminal charges. Evidence generally needs to be collected within 72 hours.

If you decide not to go to an emergency room, RIC Health Services can provide testing and treatment for STI's and advice about pregnancy prevention. However, the staff cannot collect evidence to be used to press charges in the future or perform time-sensitive screening for date rape drugs.

SUPPORT FOR ALL SURVIVORS

Anyone, regardless of identity - gender, age, race, or sexuality - can be the victim of rape . . .

REPORTING

Regardless of when or where the assault happened, reporting it is your decision. Only you can decide if you want to report the assault and to whom. If you are not sure of what you want to do, you may want to talk about your options with a confidential resource such as the RIC Counseling Center or RIC Health Services, or contact Day One at 1-800-494-8100.

If you decide to speak to others on campus, a report of your sexual violence experience may be made to the Title IX Coordinator, who oversees the investigation of incidents of sexual violence. As of September 2015, the Title IX Coordinator has named three Deputy Coordinators. One or two of these individuals will visit with a survivor (complainant), the alleged perpetrator (respondent), and any witness to the incident. The investigator then compiles a report outlining potential next steps. You can reach the Title IX Coordinator, Maggie Sullivan, at 401-456-8216. If you have not already considered next steps, you have other options after the investigation about reporting to campus or local police and filing a complaint with the Dean of Students and the Student Conduct Board.

YOUR SAFETY MATTERS

Campus Police is here to serve and protect the RIC community. Should you need immediate safety protection or intervention, please call 401-456-8201. Campus Police can provide for the student's safety, assist with obtaining protective orders and arrange for access to emergency medical attention. They can also help you determine steps that will protect you, such as filing an official report and/or pursuing charges. If the assault happened off-campus, please feel free to reach out to Campus Police at any time for assistance in contacting and communicating with other police departments. Please note that if Campus Police is notified of an assault, they must report the incident to the Title IX Coordinator, including the identities of survivor/ victim and the alleged perpetrator. However, contacting Campus Police does NOT mean you must also make an official criminal complaint with law enforcement such as Providence Police.

► Often these crimes go unreported but all survivors have the same rights to services and protection and are encouraged to seek medical care and counseling services. RAINN (Rape, Abuse and Incest National Network) has an anonymous phone line that can be helpful in locating local services (1-800-656-HOPE [4673]). For an online chat, go to the National Sexual Assault Online Hotline at <https://ohl.rainn.org/online/>
