

The alumni survey was completed by 37 practicing graduates of the program between the years 2008-2017. Alumni were asked to rate overall how satisfied they were with the graduate training in School Psychology they received at RIC. 73% were extremely satisfied, 27% were mostly satisfied.

The alumni were also asked how satisfied they were with the degree to which the program prepared them to be School Psychologists. 62% were extremely satisfied and 38% were mostly satisfied.

Additional survey questions specific to the National Association of School Psychologist standards and needs in the field helped assess what is working well and areas in need of improvement at the program level.
